

John William Lambert (January 29, 1860 – May 20, 1952) was an American automotive pioneer, inventor, and automobile manufacturer.

The Buckeye gasoline buggy or Lambert gasoline buggy was the first practical gasoline automobile available for sale in America, according to automobile historians.

Lambert made America's first such automobile in 1891, according to a five year extensive study by L. Scott Bailey, a well-known automobile historian, editor, and publisher.

Lambert initially designed and built his "horseless carriage" gasoline automobile in 1890. He successfully tested it in January 1891 inside an 80-foot farm implement showroom he owned in Ohio City. Lambert's three-wheeled surrey-top gasoline-powered buggy was his design. It had a single cylinder, four- stroke engine. This, the Buckeye gasoline buggy, was a one-seat tricycle with large rear wheels. -Wikipedia
